he joined as Chief Engineer in the new plant. But the three Assistant Engineers in the existing plant moved the issue to the court of law contesting that the selection of Mr. C.B. Sastry is not valid, as he is not the senior one among the Assistant Engineers in the existing plant.

Questions : 16

(a) Analyse the case.

(b) Predict the court judgement regarding this issue.

Printed Pages : 6

Roll No. .....

576351(76)
676551(76)

MBA (3rd Semester) Examination, Nov.-Dec., 2015

(New Scheme)

Human Resources Planning and Development

Time Allowed : 3 hours Maximum Marks : 80
Minimum Pass Marks : 32

Note : (i) Attempt all questions.
(ii) The figures in the right-hand margin indicate marks.

Unit - I

1. The HR Manager is being paid by management. Is he therefore a representative of management or HR? Discuss in detail. 16

Or

How do you draw up an action plan to the manpower plan for a newly established firm?

Unit - II

2. What are the objectives and benefits of human resource planning? 16

Or

Discuss the various sources of recruitment with its merits and demerits.

Unit - III

3. Write an explanatory note on HRD subsystem. 16

Or

"HRD has aspects of motivation and mentoring which increases its significance." Explain. 16

Unit - IV

4. Compare and contrast HRD in private and public sector organizations. 16

Or

Write short notes on :

(a) HRD audit

(b) HRD in defense 16

Unit - V

5. Case Study

Uptron Electronics Ltd. is a pioneering and internationally reputed firm in the electronics industry. It is one of the largest firms in the country. It attracted employees from internationally reputed institutes and industries by offering high salaries, perks, etc. It has advertised for the position of an Electronics Engineer recently. Nearly 150 candidates working in various electronics firms applied for the job. Mr. Sashidhar, an Electronics Engineering Graduate from Indian Institute of Technology with 5 years working experience in a small electronics firm was selected from among the 130 candidates who took tests and interview. The interview board recommended an enhancement in his salary by Rs. 500 more than his present salary at his request. Mr. Sashidhar was very happy to achieve this and he was congratulated by a number of people including his previous employer for his brilliant interview performance and good luck.

Mr. Sashidhar joined Uptron Electronics Ltd. on 21st January, 2005 with a great enthusiasm. He also found his job to be quite comfortable and challenging one and he felt it was highly prestigious to work with this company during the formative years of his career. He found his superiors as well as subordinates to be friendly and co-operative. But this climate did not live long. After one year of his service, he slowly learnt about a number of unpleasant stories about the company, management, the superior-subordinate relations, rate of employee turnover, especially at higher level. But he decided to stay on as he promised several things to the management in the interview. He wanted to please and change the attitude of management through his diligent performance, firm commitment and dedication. He started maximising his contributions and management got the impression that Mr. Sashidhar has settled down and will remain in the company.

After sometime, the superior started riding over Mr. Sashidhar. He was over-loaded with multifarious jobs. His freedom in deciding and executing was cut down to size. He was ill-treated on a number of occasions before his subordinates. His colleagues also started assigning their responsibilities to Mr. Sashidhar. Consequently there were imbalances in his family life, social life and organisational life. But he seemed to be calm and contented. Management felt that Mr. Sashidhar had the potential to hear with many more organisational responsibilities.

It was quite surprising to the General Manager to see the resignation letter of Mr. Sashidhar along with a cheque equivalent to a month's salary one fine morning on 18th January, 1998. The General Manager failed to convince Mr. Sashidhar to withdraw his resignation. The General Manager relieved him on 25th January, 1998. The General Manager wanted to appoint a committee to go into the matter immediately, but dropped the idea later.

Questions : 16

(a) What prevented the General Manager from appointing a Committee?

(b) What is wrong with the recruitment policy of the company?

(c) Why did Mr. Sashidhar's resignation surprise the General Manager?

Or

Case Study

CRR Industries Ltd., Eluru is producing electric bulbs, water coolers, air coolers and refrigerators. Recently it added a new line of production i.e. electric motors both for domestic and agricultural purposes. It needs one electrical engineer with B. Tech. qualification to look after the new plant producing electric motors. Presently five electrical engineers with B.E. qualificaiton as Assistant Engineers are working in the existing plant. The company advertised for the post of Chief Engineer (Electrical) for its new plant. It received twelve applications out of which five are from the Assistant Engineers working in the existing plant.

The company used techniques of preliminary interviews, tests, final interview and medical examination and finally selected Mr. C.B. Sastry, employed in the existing plant of the company. He is fourth in the seniority list of the Assistant Engineers in the present plant. The company served the appointment order to Mr. Sastry and