Roll No. .....

:s–7

576312(76)
676312(76)

1. B. A. (Third Semester) Examination, Nov.-Dec. 2019

(New Scheme)

(Management Branch)

(Specialization : General)

ORGANIZATIONAL DEVELOPMENT

Time Allowed : Three hours

Maximum Marks : 80

Minimum Pass Marks : 32

lote : Attempt all the questions. Internal choices are provided. There are two sections A and B. Attempt any one question from every part (unit) of Section-A, Section-B is compulsory.

Section- 'A' 12×5=60

(a) What do you understand by organizational structure? Explain the various factors influencing design of organizational structure.

PTO

(b) What do you understand by organization effectivness. Explain the various approaches of organizational effectiveness.

2. (a) Why individuals and groups resist organizational change? Suggest strategies and measures to prevent such resistance.

(b) Define Organizational Development. Explain the process of organizational development alongwith its nature.

3. (a) What do you understand by the term conflict? Explain the various causes/sources of conflict and measures to resolve conflict.

(b) Write notes on (any two) :

(i) Managerial Grid

(ii) Transactional Analysis

(iii) Sensityvity Training

4. (a) Organizational culture generally reflect the beliefs and ideologies of the founder. Do you agree with the above statement? Give reasons. Also explain the functions of organizational culture.

(b) What do you understand by organizational climate? Explain its features and factors influcing organizational climate.

5. (a) What is empowerment? Explain the various way to expand power of individuals in an organization.

(b) Define Gender issues. Give a detailed note on the gender issues found worldwide. Explain, how there issues can be taken care of in the organization?

(c) What is meant by creativity? Explain certain ways through which creativity can be stimulated in the organization.

Section- 'B' 20

6. (a) Write short notes on any two :

(i) Survey feedback

(ii) Process consultation

(iii) Roles and responsibilities of change Agent

(iv) Cross cultural Dynamics

(v) Merits and demerits of different organization structure

Or

(b) Read the following case carefully and answer the questions given at the end.

Sunrise Industries wasn't always a big industrial giant. In fact, it had a very humble beginning. Kamaldeep, an electrical engineer, set up a small scale industrial unit in 1975. To start with, he undertook assembly and sale of sewing machines under the name 'Sunrise' and gradually started manufacture of certain spare parts. Because of better quality, greater selling skills and lower profit margin, his sales turnover touched the figure of 1 crore during 1979-80. The products included sewing machines, irons, fans, geysers, etc.

In 1981, Kamaldeep entered into a partnership with Ankit, an M.B.A., who contributed a lot of capital into the business. The firm acquired a big industrial plot in the New Industrial Area of Ludhiana and converted their business into a company known as Sunrise Industries Ltd. in 1982. The brand name 'Sunrise' was also registered in the name of the company. The company started the commercial production of single tub washing machines and instant geysers in 1983. Kamaldeep looked after production and Ankit took care of marketing and finance. They never looked back as they had a motivated workforce of 40 workers and 5 foremen who worked like a big family.

It was during 1990 that the company shifted its head office to New Delhi and entered into a technical collaboration agreement with a foreign company. As a result, new generation twin tub semi-automatic washing machines and vacuum cleaners were launched in 1991 and the products were well received in the market because of latest technology and expanding market for electrical gadgets. The sales turnover increased tremendously every year.

During the first few years, the management and employees of Sunrise Industries were nothing more than a group of friends and relatives. There were no job descriptions, no formalized procedures and not much division of labour. All the people worked together and shared the problems of each other. The decision-making was participative in the sense everyone was free to give his opinion whenever any problem arose. Thus, there were cordial relations between the management and the employees. But after the collaboration agreement in 1990, the organisation structure of the company started changing dramatically. Because of massive expansion, a large number of workers, foremen, executives and professionals were recruited and separate departments were created for the production of sewing machines, irons, fans, geysers, washing machines and vacuum cleaners. Formalization got momentum further with the creation of separate Finance, Marketing and Human Resource divisions. Now all the jobs in the company are standardized, there are job descriptions, manuals, many rules and procedures and also an elaborate management information system. All the important decisions are taken at the top and there are many layers between the top management and the workers because of vertical differentiation that has taken place during the past five years.

The quarterly reports of the last year reveal that percentage of customer complaints is on the rise, the morale of the workers is going down and commitment of the workers to the organisation is on the decline.

Questions :

(a) What changes in structural dimensions have taken place in Sunrise Industries? 7

(b) Is the present structure organic? Give reasons for your answer. 7

(c) Which approach to organisation do you feel can help the company tackle the current problems? 6