Printed Pages – 7

576355 (76)
676555 (76)

MBA (3rd Semester)

Examination, Nov.-Dec., 2014

Branch : Management

PERFORMANCE MANAGEMENT

(NEW)

Time Allowed : Three Hours

Maximum Marks : 80

Minimum Pass Marks : 32

Note : The paper consists of two sections. Section A consists of five questions. Each question consist of three parts, attempt any two parts in each question. Section 'B' is a case study, which is compulsory.

Section-A

Q. 1. (a) Describe the concept and perspective of performance management. 7

(b) "No organization can survive without improving its performance". Comment on the statement. Do you agree with it. 7

(c) Performance appraisal is plagued by rating errors. Elaborate this statement using suitable examples. 7

Q. 2. (a) What is performance planning ? Explain the process of performance planning. 7

(b) "Competency is linked to performance planning". Do you agree with this statement. If yes, give reasons. 7

(c) Is there any difference between feedback and performance counselling. Elaborate your answers with suitable examples. 7

Q. 3. (a) Performance management system is a key to competitive advantage of an organization. Justify the statement with examples. 7

(b) Take an example of any organization, and design and explain the performance management system of that organization. 7

(c) How can performance management bring about change in any organization ? 7

Q. 4. (a) How can reward-based performance management be nurtured ? What are the steps an organization must initiate to drive performance. 7

(b) Career management is the responsibility of both individual employee and organization. Substantiate this statement through examples. 7

(c) What is team-based management by objectives. How can team based goals be reached. 7

Q. 5. (a) Performance measurement is much more than a simple return on investment calculation. Substantiate this statement. 7

(b) How can competency-based performance management be developed ? Discuss salient features of nurturing competency in organization with the support of relevant drivers. 7

(c) What is the structure and content of leadership-based performance management strategy. Write a summary illustrating essential features. 7

Section-B

Case Study

Hotel Asia International, a five star hotel located in a metro city of India has a turnover of little over 100 crores with 420 rooms, five restaurants, six conference halls, golf club and other paraphernalia. The hotel is owned by a Rajasthan marwari business family. Currently, occupancy rate of the hotel is above 75 per cent, which a is remarkable achievement for any hotel. Financials of the hotel are sound with last financial year profit after tax standing at eighteen crore rupees. The hotel is known for its progressive human resource policies. Organizational culture is characterized by openness, commitment, risk taking, respect for individual and encourages employees to optimize their potential. Top management of the hotel takes keen interest in welfare, career growth and well being of employees. As a result, employee turnover of the hotel is far below than of average turnover of the hotel industry. Organizational culture across all departments in the hotel is uniform and employees take pride in working in such an environment. Management of the hotel has decided to capitalize on this rich organizational culture in institutionalization of performance of employees as a way of life. Discuss in your view what should the management of this hotel do to achieve this target of performance management institutionalization. How can a salutary organizational culture existing in the organization be of help in this process. 10